Dear Parents and Students,

The faculty and administration at Lee's Summit West would like to make you aware of a schedule change for the 2015-16 school year. This new schedule allows for a daily and consistent student intervention program. We currently utilize several student intervention programs at LSW to include: Overtime-homework support, the student assistance program, titan success, before and after school math tutoring, as well as an after school writing lab. These academic programs will continue to support the needs of each student here at LSW. Additionally, we also feel strongly about providing daily student interventions, and academic support during the school day is instrumental in creating an even stronger professional learning community. Effective schools research details compelling evidence of interventions being offered during the school day as a significant factor in closing gaps in student learning.

During Titan Time, which is a 27 minute period four days a week, students will have opportunities to receive academic support. This could be voluntary or mandated by teachers and staff. For some students, this time could simply be used to have conversations, get guidance from teachers, or possibly gain some much needed time to get work done. Many other students with an identified need will be requested by their teachers to report to them during this time. These students would be getting extra help with mastering important concepts, finishing missing assignments, or making up exams. The expectation will be that students report directly to the requesting staff member. Failure to comply with a teachers request will result in an appropriate discipline consequence.

Our staff has a passion for learning and they feel strongly that this slight schedule adjustment will greatly benefit all of the students at Lee's Summit West. This focus on the individual needs of our students will help maintain and improve upon the continued academic growth and success at Lee's Summit West.

Sincerely,
LSW Intervention Team
